

ANNUAL IMPACT REPORT

IT TAKES A VILLAGE

2023 WAS A ROBUST YEAR FOR MISSION DELIVERY AT SOS

Message from the Board Chair and CEO

The African proverb “It takes a village to raise a child” is evident here at SOS children’s Villages Florida. It takes the support of many people to provide a safe, healthy environment where children are given the security they need to develop and flourish. In 2023 we accomplished so much with the help of so many. From staff, Board members, donors, volunteers, supporters, and even the children themselves – we are proud to share our accomplishments and grateful for your support.

The construction of the new annex of our administration building was a highlight of the year. This project featuring 2000 square feet of space, will allow our staff the opportunity to do the very important work they do more efficiently. We are grateful for the support received to make this project come to life.

Finding gainful employment is often an area of difficulty for former foster youth. These young adults as they transition towards becoming fully functioning self-sufficient adults, need to have well developed social and self-efficacy skills to equip them to manage relationships in multiple contexts, including in an employment setting.

Through our partnership and philanthropic efforts, Seminole Casino Coconut Creek’s “Coco Cares” program, provided numerous benefits to children in the community, especially our young adults aging at of care at eighteen by offering training and employment opportunities.

ACCREDITATIONS
We are honored to have received a 4-star rating from Charity Navigator, America’s largest independent charity evaluator. This is their highest possible rating and demonstrates strong financial health and commitment to accountability and transparency. This 4-star evaluation reflects our exceptional and continued commitment to providing compassionate, cost-effective, and innovative programs in urgent response to the needs of the children, young adults, and families we serve.

We also were reaccredited by the Council on Accreditation (COA) through May 31st, 2027. This is a significant achievement as it represents the fulfillment of countless hours of hard work and the dedication of our staff and Board members. This accreditation and accompanying report are important and provides a unique view of our organization, addresses ratings for all Purpose, Core, and Practice standards, and noted organizational strengths and areas for opportunities.

OTHER UPDATES
Florida Certified Child Welfare Dependency Case Managers were responsible for providing services for 69 children and their families. Once children are reunified, adopted, or placed with a relative/non-relative, SOS Dependency Case Managers continue to provide support to the families until the Courts close the case. In 2023, there were a total of 21 family cases which were closed out by the courts and no longer need additional supervision by the SOS DCM or department.

Our annual gala held at the Seminole Hard Rock Hotel and Casino in November raised a record breaking $765,000.

A THERAPIST’S VIEW OF ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE

KRISTA VECCHIONE
SOS Therapist

At SOS Children’s Villages Florida, we place a strong emphasis on academics resulting in a 100% high school graduation rate for the past fifteen consecutive years.

Meet our onsite therapist for some Q&A’s, as she shares her interactions with our children and their academic performance.

Q. How are children performing academically in general?

A. In general, most of our children are performing well in their academic areas. For the ones who struggle a bit, bi-weekly tutoring services in reading and math helps them reach their full potential.

Q. What are the barriers to high academic performance?

A. Many have experienced extensive trauma which hinders their ability to focus and learn. Some have missed weeks and months of school because they had to take care of siblings or themselves. All our children are smart beyond their years, however after experiencing trauma and missing school, their cognitive abilities undergo many changes. It takes the work and dedication of the child and the SOS team to reverse some of these changes.

Q. How do you work with them to remain focused on their education?

A. In therapy we do a lot of trauma focused work. This allows the child to understand their past and reframe the way they think and feel about it, helping them move from a constant state of fight or flight to a state of calmness, allowing the child to focus and look forward to their academic future. For our ADHD children, a combination of behavior modifications, focus work, and additional services help these children gain better thinking and concentration skills.

Q. What if any social barriers exist for a child in foster care attending school?

A. I think for most of our kids, the stigma of being in foster care creates several social barriers. A lot of our children, unfortunately, feel shame or guilt and blame themselves. This interferes with social growth and interactions.

Q. How do they overcome these?

A. To overcome some of this, they work hard in therapy and in other areas to better understand their past and to recognize that their trauma does not define them. This type of reframing allows a child to gain self-confidence and self-worth; it gives them hope, and this helps increase social growth, confidence, and interaction.

Q. What age group is most impacted?

A. All age groups are greatly impacted however our teens are affected the most. Our teens long for normalcy and while SOS provides our children with as much normalcy as possible, when we cannot, our teens are affected in a more complex way. A lot of teens are also faced with the reality that they may never be adopted and may have to age out of the system. Imagine having to take a big state test while worrying about that!! They are my heroes. A lot of people call us heroes, but they are the REAL heroes.

Q. Any other meaningful insight you can provide will be appreciated.

A. From the therapy team to the office staff, and every department in between, we are constantly looking for ways to teach and provide support and love to all our children so that they may reach their full potential in and out of the classroom.
